THE STEINWAY VERTEGRAND

(Trade Marked) Is the latest invention of this world-famous house. Constructed on new principles after unique patterns, it embodies all the qualities of a grand piano in upright form. It is what its name implies-a vertical grand piano.

All musicians and experts who have examined and tested this instrument have unanimously pronounced it the greatest achievement in modern pianoforte building and have marveled at the vast of its tone to that of the ordinary small grand piano.

Through the creation of this remarkable instrument the public are enabled to place in their homes a genuine Steinway, fulfilling all the most exacting requirements at the extremely moderate price of $500.

A single visit and inspection will convince any intending purchaser that the problem of supplying the most artistic and satisfying piano at the lowest possible cost has been finally solved by us.

MISS MORRISON AND MR. WAUD MARRIED LAST NIGHT.

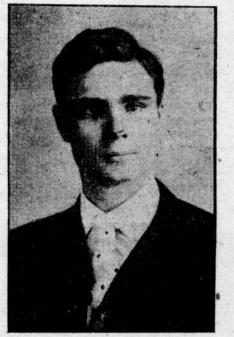

A Golden Wedding With the Happiest Surroundings-Home Comings-

The chancel at St. John's Church last night was beautifully adorned with mountain vines and boughs and fall flowers, for the wedding of Miss Olive Butler Morrison and Mr. Ernest Othneil Pester Waud. Every flower and twig had a sentiment for the bride, for they came from the former home of her mother at Morgantown, N. C., and were collected by her friends and relatives there, who were unable to come on for the wedding. The ushers who seated the guests were Dr. John Mortimer Hayes of Baltimore and Mr. Wilford Hudson Osgood of this city. The attractive and accomplished young bride came in with her uncle, Gen. Edward Mortimer Hayes, and was preceded to the chancel by her maids of honor, Miss Ivy Hayes and Miss Louise Powelson. Her bridal dress was of duchess lace made over chiffon and satin. The enveloping vell of tulle fell from a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. A necklace of pearl pen-dants, the gift of the groom, was also worn. Her bridesmaids, with cresses of white ba-tiste, carried clusters of American beauty roses. Rev. Edward Slater Dunlap, the assistant rector, performed the ceremony, Mr. James S. Hine of New York being best man. Afterward the oride's mother, Mrs. Herbert Knowles storrison, charmingly gowned in French gray chiffon, received the bridal party and the intimate friends of the family at her apartment in the Rochambeau, where a buffet supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Waud left latter for a western trip, the latter stylishly dressed in a gray tweed traveling costume. They expect to spend the coming winter in Denver. Their marriage is the culmination of a Cornell romance, both bride and groom graduating from there in 1903, and their attendants being likewise classmates there. Mr. Waud is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Pester Waud of London and New York, who were present at the wedding. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Morrison of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Morrison of Roland Park, near Baltimore.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Rosenbaum in large numbers greeted them at Wesley Chapel, 5th and F streets northwest, last evening, the occasion being the golden anniversary of their wedding. Congratulations were legion and many were the wishes for many years of life to both of the old people and continued usefulness. It was very fitting that the celebration should be held in the church, with which Mr. Rosenbaum has been so prominently was before 8 o'clock when the members of the congregation and other friends began to arrive. At the door of the Sunday school the congregation and other friends began to arrive. At the door of the Sunday school room they were met by Dr. W. M. Ferguson, the pastor of the church, and Mrs. Ferguson, who introduced each guest to Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum, to William A. Rosenbaum, their son, and to Mrs. Susie E. Adams, their daughter. The pastor and his wife were also assisted by J. S. Barker, the superintendent of the Sunday school, and Mrs. Barker.

After all the guests had been presented more formal services took place. Mr. William T. Galliher, treasurer of the church, took the rostrum and called the party to order. Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum marched to the center of the group, to the music of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Clara M. Ellis, the granddaughter of the couple. After they were seated and prayer had been offered Dr. Ferguson was called upon to present the congratulations of the church. Dr. Ferguson expressed extend to you our congratulations. Fifty years ago was a time of prospect, the springtime, when everything was decorated with the flowers of that season. Now is a time of retrospect, the autumn. Not all the hopes and ambitions have been attained, but there has been success. That success has been due primarily to one thing—to the fact that you put your faith in God." He also expressed the wish for many future years of life. And continuing, he said:

"And now I bring you a present, a sign of our feeling of congratulation, some gold."

ing, he said:

"And now I bring you a present, a sign of our feeling of congratulation, some gold. Gold is a standard, and there are fifty pieces of gold here. This signifies that each of your fifty years of wedded life have measured up to the standard, and further marks the golden glory of the years to come for you." During this speech Mildred Gallither advanced with a tray, on which was a golden purse, containing the gold. Superintendent Barker of the Sunday school next presented the congratulations of that body, with which Mr. Rosenbaum has been connected for so long as teacher and chorister. He advanced the idea that Mr. Rosenbaum might well look back on the many young men before whom he had taught the gospel in those years and see the good that he has done in that one way. The Chapin W. C. T. U., of which Mrs. Rosenbaum is an active member, further extended the congratulations of their members with a present, being represented by Mrs. M. E. Cohen.

These speeches were interspersed with music, soles being represented by

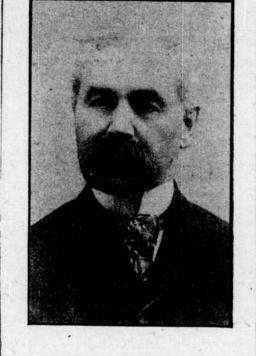

Mrs. M. E. Cohen.

These speeches were interspersed with music, solos being rendered by Mrs. D. Olin Leech and Mrs. Charles Bayly, accompanied by Prof. King. Miss Helen Ferguson also gave several selections during the evening on the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Harmer sang a duet. An interesting feature of the latter number was that announced by Mrs. Harmer, that they had already sung at two golden weddings, those of the parents of each of them.

The church was tastily decorated with palms and golden rod. The celebration was in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. C. C. Helmick, chairman; Mrs. J. S. Barker, Mrs. M. E. Hyatt, Mrs. William T. Galliher, Mrs. D. O. Leech, Mrs. John Schucker, Mrs. Emma Roberts, Mrs. George Lincoln, Mrs. Rebecca Scrivener and Charles Birchhead.

Mary Hester Dodge, the golden bride of last night. He came to the national capital in 1868, and when the taking of the ninth census was begun he was appointed to that department. He continued there until July, 1902. During that time he did great work for the census bureau, and much of the time he was in charge of the verification of the tables after they had been compiled. He received many compliments on the accuracy of his work. But he was included in the order of the director of the census, reau, that men over forty-five years old must be dismissed, and Mr. Rosenbaum left the bureau, where he had been so con spicuous. Since then he has enjoyed a rest, engaging somewhat in the real estate business. For thirteen years, in the interims between the census work, Mr. Rosenbaum worked for Lansburgh & Bro., where he was highly thought of.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosembaum had four children. Two of these are dead, Mrs. Rosie Ellis and Eber Rosenbaum, and two are Ellis and Eleer Rosenbaum, and two are still living and were present last evening, William A. Rosenbaum, a lawyer of New York city, and Mrs. Susie E. Adams of Westboro, Mass.

Westboro, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum have been connected with Wesley Chapel for thirty-five years, and he has been a trustee for thirty years. For thirty-three years he has been chorister of the Sunday school. During these long years of service he has made many warm friends among the congregation.

Today at 1 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rus-sell Ide, 801 A street southeast, Rev. M. Ross Fishburn, pastor of the Mount Pleas-ant Congregational Church, performed the marriage ceremony for Miss Florence Alvord Ide and Mr. Albert Edgar Dieterich of this city. The parlor, where the happy event took place, was profusely adorned with plants, vines and white blossoms, and palms were grouped in the round window, where the couple stood. Miss Olive L. Demarest played the wedding march as the couple, preceded by a group of young peo-

Mr. Carl Van Emon, Mr. Raymond Miles and Mr. Donald A. Craig, entered the parlor. These attendants, facing each other, marked an aisle near the window, through which the couple passed to the presence of the minister. Another interesting group in the bridal party was composed of the following children: Eleanor Hills, Elizabeth Wilson, Cathe ine Demarest, Robert Ide, Russell Ide and Louis Dicterich.

The attractive bride wore her traveling dress of dark blue chiffon taffeta and a hat in the same coloring. Her girl friends were Refreshments were served in the dining room, where pink and white flowers made a pretty contrast. Mr. and Mrs. Dieterich left during the afternoon for a northern honeymoon jaunt and will be at home after November 1 at the Cali-fornie.

Miss Clara Horton and Miss Lulu Weber were bridesmaids yesterday in New York at the wedding of Miss Anna May Mitchell and Mr. Arthur D. Freese.

Mrs. Luther P. Hare and Miss Hare of this city are recent arrivals at the Hot Springs.

Mrs. Finley S. Hayes gave a tea at her home, "The Willows," in Langdon, D. C., Sunday in honor of Col. J. Edwin Browne, the commander-elect of the U. V. U., and Mrs. Browne, whose birthday fell on the day of her husband's election, Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Bond, parents of Mrs. Elsie Bond-Bishoff, Mrs. William Smith, Mr. Robert Hickman, Mr. Henry A. Dolan, Mr. M. A. Dolan and Mr. Harvey Balmer.

With such a coterie of entertainers around a banquet board it seems quite needless to say the occasion was a most enjoyable one,
